

The Wall's Corner

when the wall meets itself it stares at itself in amazement first with its right eye then its left immediately, it feels hostility but not right away does it change into stone the object of its stare it knows not what name to give that which is seizing it over from its very foundations